Smirnoff: Sweet Stuff

REBRANDING

Big Idea

The big idea of Smirnoff Sweet Stuff is stepping even farther away from trying to be a luxury liquor brand, and embracing the sweet taste that the hardcore vodka enthusiasts might not enjoy. – It's so good though.

REBRANDING

Brand Story

Not everyone drinks vodka to prove something. While traditional liquor culture often celebrates smoothness, heritage, and craftsmanship, Sweet Stuff goes in a different approach by embracing the bold, sugary flavour. This is a product designed for nights that are loud, spontaneous, and fun. It exists for the drinker who knows how sweet it is, but orders it anyway.

BEST OF PT 2

Building on Part 2: Competition

Sweet Stuff now stands out more from its competition examples from part 2, and there is still a noticeable niche within the 3 drinks.

Sweet Stuff went all-in on stepping away from liquor craftsmanship and takes its brand image to prioritizing a nightlife and sweetness theme.

Pink Suit - Its too good to not notice

Pink suit - Symbolizes standing out and choosing to.

“Its too good to not notice” – everyone can notice it. The drink stands out, and everyone can tell when you have it. It reinforces the idea that Sweet Stuff isn’t about fitting in, but owning what you enjoy.
